A Tradition of Excellence

In this issue

The Andrean introduces a new design, a dynamic change in the presentation of the news of the School, its students and its alumni. This is the first major change since 1985 when The Andrean was revamped to a magazine format from its former newsletter style.

Educational innovation is one of the hallmarks of the St. Andrew's experience and readers who have followed the progress at S.A.C. in recent years will agree. As well, tradition plays a very important role in the life of the boys at the School.

The challenge was irresistible . . . introduce readers to a radically different design and do it with the theme of "tradition".

The cover design of Number One Dress was designed by 1989 graduates and "Review" editors Michael O'Connor and Kevin Worry, and used on the cover of their yearbook. The photograph was taken by Creative Custom Photographers of Newmarket.

We thank Reverend Robert Arril for his excellent article on Guidance at St. Andrew's. The Headmaster's Prize Day address is a summation of the year completed in June and a challenge to the class of 1994. Indeed, it is a challenge to all readers. Paul Pentland's third of his four-part series on life at S.A.C. in the thirties appears in this issue, as does our traditional giving report.

The absence of the "Information Please" insert in the spring 1994 issue resulted in a reduced number of alumni news items for this edition. We encourage you to mail, phone, or fax your news and address changes, to enable us to continue to improve your publication.

The Andrean is published by St. Andrews College, for alumni, parents and friends of the School.

The S.A.C. Endowment Fund increased by over $2 million in the financial year ended June 30, 1994. The Fund started the year at a market value of $3.57 million and ended it at $5.67 million, the greatest increase in the history of St. Andrew's College.

Two years ago we introduced a giving program whereby individuals or families could open their own account. Donations large and small totalling well over $200,000 were received from contributors to this program during the financial year which ended in June.

In the spring 1994 issue of The Andean, the cover story described the generous bequest of the late Graham F. Towers and his wife Mary who left the S.A.C. Foundation over $1.1 million. These funds have been added to the Towers Bursary Fund and, in time, will greatly enhance the School's Scholarship and Bursary program.

The Bennett Legacy, an article appearing in the Annual Report section of this magazine, outlines the connection between Ken and Vi Bennett and St. Andrew's which ultimately led to their bequest of over $700,000 to the Foundation. The late Jim Hamilton '33, who served as Executive Director of the S.A.C. Foundation from 1965-1986 and Jack Bennet, School Bursar 1952-1980, worked very closely with the Bennetts in establishing their Scholarships.

Donald B. Spence, class of 1937 and a very good friend of Paul Pentland, whose Reminiscences are continued in this issue, passed away suddenly in June last year. Donald was a lifelong supporter of the College and an avid collector of fine china, crystal, works of art and silver, much of which he bequeathed to the Headmaster's residence at S.A.C. These gifts form a particularly important piece of St. Andrew's history and the bequest will add to the permanent School collection in the Headmaster's residence. This wonderful gift was the result of the strong connection Jim Hamilton forged with Mr. Spence, his contemporaries, and their School. We trust Mr. and Mrs. Bedard and future Headmasters and their wives will enjoy these special gifts of Donald B. Spence.

The recent increase in the Endowment Fund is most impressive, however, we must not rest on our laurels. The endowment of the St. Andrew's College Foundation must continue to increase dramatically to bring us in line with other major Independent Schools. A vastly increased endowment will provide stability for the present, security for the future, and viability for a broader range of society to have their sons attend one of Canada's great Schools.

The setting of St. Andrew's College is both beautiful and serene. Indeed, it is a sheltered place compared to the world outside, but in its own terms, it has had a busy and exciting year. A full list of events, sporting fixtures and happenings would be interminable, but I can affirm that the College is in very good heart academically and philosophically as we strive to produce the ALL-ROUND CITIZEN, THE COMPLETE MAN. However, I would be remiss not to underline at least a few of the highlights from the past School year.

You will see by the number of scholars we have this year that academics are priority number one in the minds of the students.

Worthy of mention is the prestigious scholarship granted to Robert Burke for summer study at Oxford University in England. During the month of July, Robert shared classroom and activity time with some of the most gifted high school students from all over the world. Among his other accomplishments during this year, Robert received the top award in the Software Development contest conducted by Guelph University for his presentation entitled '3D world'.

The prize for best delegation at the Southern Ontario Model U.N. Assembly went to the St. Andrew's team of Tim Horton and Andrew Kasianenko. Incidentally, they represented the Ukraine.

Ryan Lawlor and Benjamin Thwaites won the distinction as the most outstanding delegation at the Royal Commonwealth Society

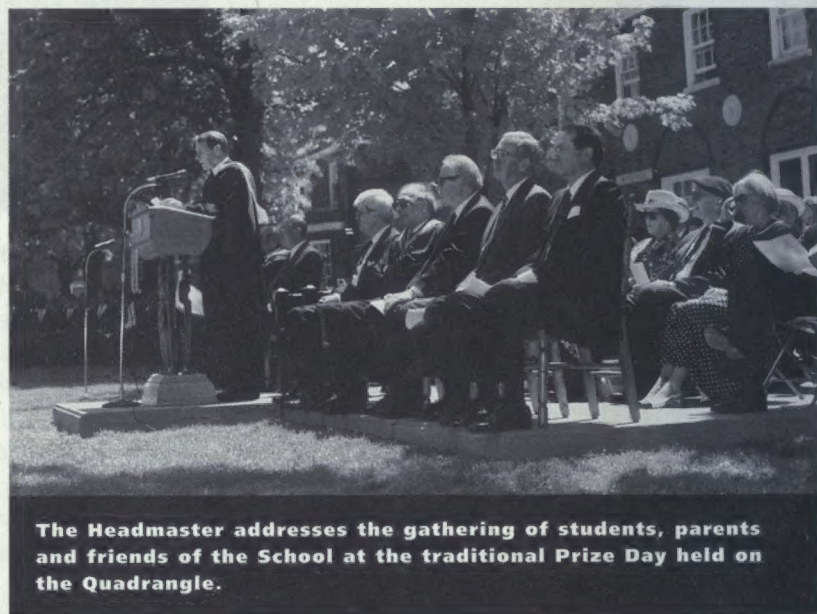

Student Forum competition held in Ottawa. More than fifty schools from across the nation competed for this honour.

From Grade 7 to Grade 13, we participated successfully in provincial and national Mathematics contests in larger numbers than ever. While we consistently ranked in the top quintile of all high schools in Canada, one of our students, Alan Wong, distinguished himself by securing a 28th place out of 29,914 contestants.

In athletics, at the first team level, S.A.C. won the Independent activities. It is also during Focus that we were treated to unforgettable musical performances and outstanding works of art by our students and staff.

Other para-academic and extra-curricular activities are worthy of mention. One of them, the Weekend Programme, under Bob Perrier's direction, was again very well received and highly attended; it is now an integral part of our structure. Also on our regular agenda are the Social Awareness presentations organized by the Ladies' Guild. They address

School Championship in Soccer and Track and Field (the latter for the fifth straight year), and once again, our Hockey team dominated the Metropolitan Toronto rankings all season long, reaching the round of eight in the Provincial championships.

Although there are no official titles at any other level except the first team level, we can boast that our fifty-one teams in nineteen different sports won more than their share of games and enhanced the School's reputation in matters of fair play and sportsmanship.

The productions of Charlie's Aunt, the Man of La Mancha and the record-setting ten plays in the Arts Festival, Focus, attest to the vibrancy of Drama in our School adolescent issues such as smoking, drinking and driving, and the prevention of AIDS. In March, St. Andrew's hosted the annual provincial Debating Championships under the leadership of Mr. Rupert Ray. Our thanks to the parents and friends who acted as judges on this occasion. For the second time in three years, six students and two teachers took part in a six week expedition to Nepal under the auspices of Sir Edmund Hillary. They helped the Sherpas complete the construction of a monastery in Kathmandu. Finally, in a lighter vein, we were all amused by the hilarious countenance of our twelve volunteers at the Mayfest hypnosis session.

Even in such a brief survey of the significant funding for scholarships and bursaries for future local students.

School year, it is surely right to stress how much all members of the College owe to those who contribute in their several ways to the smooth running of this institution. At this time, I should like to underline specifically the untold voluntary contributions of the Board of Governors and its Chairman, Mr. Peter Harris, and thank the Development Office, the Bursar's Office, the Ladies' Guild, the College secretaries, the heads of food services and maintenance, and all who help them. It is through the harmonious relationship of so many men and women that the School becomes more than a mere boarding-house, emerging rather as a genuine community.

St. Andrew's College has indeed been blessed this year. Graham Towers, class of 1913, the first Governor of the Bank of Canada, and his wife, Mary, made St. Andrew's the major beneficiary of their estate. In order to recognize their bequest, the Board of Governors has recently named our library the Towers Library. Also, through their estate, Violet and Kendall Bennett, long-time friends of the School, have provided Prize Day, with the graduation each spring of another crop of young Andreans is, for me, a reminder of the rapid passage of time. This year, with some significant comings and goings in the Masters' Common Room, that feeling of "time flying - never to return", to quote Virgil, is, if anything, even more pronounced.

The beginning of the winter saw the installation of our new Bursar, Douglas Campbell. We welcome him and his charming wife, Donna, to their first prize giving at St. Andrew's.

Five years ago, the language department was in need of new direction, with the departure of its former Head. Defying modern practices, we attracted an experienced gentleman in the twilight of his productive teaching career. With the energy of a twenty-year-old, - even two weeks ago he was running up and down the Rugby field in a refereeing capacity - Phil Day energized the French department into a vibrant unit and was the driving force behind the re-introduction of Spanish. Phil has coached Soccer and Rugby and has been a constant force on our Race Relations Committee. Some will remember Phil as a consummate actor who brought his stage credits to a dramatic conclusion a few weeks ago during Focus, when he played the role of a convincing cadaver and willing autopsy candidate in a production entitled 'Procedure'. May happy days lie ahead for Phil and his wife Sheryl.

Some of you may recall the days when the Toronto Argonauts held their pre-season training camp on our lower fields. Although, financially, this venture wasn't an unmitigated success, it eventually paid handsome dividends when S.A.C. attracted one of the assistant-coaches who would dispense professionalism to our First Football team for the next twenty-one years. This past November, the School community, including present parents, present athletes and a significant number of Old Boys paid tribute to Gord and Joan Ackerman for their outstanding contributions to generations of Andreans. Be it on the football field, the basketball courts, the athletic stores, the golf fairways or even in the keyboarding classes, Gord's endless enthusiasm and authoritative presence never failed to evoke emotions and to leave his words firmly etched in everyone's consciousness. Gord's memory has been encapsulated in a spectacular scoreboard erected at the west side of the Gordon Ackerman football field. Gord and Joan, may you enjoy your well-earned retirement.

It would be hard to imagine two more diametrically different personalities than mine and that of the Assistant-Headmaster in charge of Administration. As is often the case in a good marriage, opposites inspire each other and somehow manage to form an indelible bond. This is how I choose to qualify an integral and vital part of our administrative team.

Peter Stuart began his St. Andrew's career in 1971, having plied his British-honed engineering skills at Canadair in Montreal, and then having become the number-two man at King's-Edgehill School in Nova Scotia, where he taught, coached First Hockey and oversaw discipline. At S.A.C., Peter soon earned the reputation of a superb Mathematics teacher while gaining everyone's respect for his outstanding organizational skills, his absolute dedication and his unquestioned integrity. Ten years later, when I assumed my present role, Peter was an obvious choice for an Assistant-Headmaster's position.

I find it impossible to put adequately into words my deep gratitude to Peter. With his mastery of all the diverse paraphernalia of College business, he has been the linchpin of the School, always available to provide a solution to any conundrum and with seemingly unerring skill, to address the heart of any matter. St. Andrew's College, and I, in particular, owe Peter an immense debt of gratitude for his unstinting service. A special thanks to Peter's wife, Pat, for her assistance and support at a myriad of School functions.

The situation is always the same; every graduating class faces an uncertain and increasingly difficult world, and because they are the graduating class, they are asked to take up the challenge of future leadership and to succeed where often their elders have failed.

I'm afraid that today is not going to be much different. These are trying times, the future is full of uncertainties - and yes I am going to suggest that you do something about it.

Today's challenges seem so complex that it is virtually impossible to select any one of them as the most important. Is it war, terrorism, the AIDS epidemic, riot, famine, the economy, the environment or simply uncertainty? Time doesn't allow me to do any more than list ten headlines of the past few weeks:

1. Rwanda's killing fields
2. Schools are turning into danger zones
3. Woman slain in Just Desserts Robbery
4. Drug Barons control Columbia
5. Atrocities in Yugoslavia
6. Family breakup more prevalent
7. Independence in Quebec would be damaging for everyone
8. North Korea has developed an atomic bomb
9. Death, not Freedom, in Haiti
10. IRA Bombing Continues in London

But all is not despair.

1. Freedom in South Africa
2. Forty million contributed to Food Aid
3. Doctors cheer as twins separated
4. D Day - Normandy's heroes honoured
5. Peace in Palestine

You will note I listed ten troublesome headlines and only five hopeful ones. It appears, therefore,

RUN, CLASS OF '94, RUN!

Headmaster's Report

Above: Kingsley Ward presents The Colonel Tilston Award for grade thirteen to Christopher Richards '94 of Bermuda, and below, he presents the grade eight award to Jason Hammond. The Tilston Awards were established by the late Col. Tilston and Mr. Ward to honour a boy in each grade for his effort, persistence and tenacity. For Chris and Jason the word "courage" should be added, as both students faced tremendous health obstacles in completing their year. Chris is the son of Bob Richards '66 and Jason is the grandson of Mac Frost '40.

that the world is twice as bad as it is good, and although I do not believe that, it is you who must try to rectify this. You may reasonably ask, "Why me?" The answer is: because you have had the opportunity to learn, to live in freedom, and you are also gifted. In addition, you are better prepared than most; you are distinguished from graduates of other schools because you are about to graduate from here. Since your space your Alma Mater will seem a beautiful and elusive experience. Even King Arthur's Round Table concept had flaws. And this leads me to the crux of what I want to say to you this afternoon.

King Arthur and his Round Table have been evoked many times in the centuries since the balladeers of medieval England first told of the legendary King and the brief golden age over which he presided in suddenly comes forward to tell Arthur that he shares his dream of Camelot, that he has listened, and understood and that he has the courage to keep the dream alive.

King Arthur suddenly realizes that his dream could still come true. His hope rests in young people like Tom Warwick who would carry the dream forward. Young people would believe that right made might, not might made right, that being reasonable was not a weakness, that a just society was possible.

Arthur calls out, "Tom Warwick, if you believe, do not die on this battlefield because Camelot would die with you. As your king, I command you, keep the dream alive. Run, Tom Warwick, run!"

You, the 'Class of '94' must become the Tom Warwicks of St. Andrew's College. The task will not be easy. Tom only had to run to every village and farm in England; you must run to every city and nation on this planet. Tom kept King Arthur's dreams alive. You must keep St. Andrew's dreams alive:

That people must be judged by their intellect, not the loudness of their voices.

That people must be judged by their character and not the colour of their skin.

That women must be judged by what they contribute, not by sexist standards.

That people of different religions can respect the convictions of others.

That people of different nationalities can live together.

That cultures are not right or wrong, they are simply different.

Tell them you share this dream. You will meet doubters, haters, bigots and war-mongers, but tell them you lived life as it could be. Tell them that you shared at St. Andrew's College the pride of your differences and the joy of your togetherness. Keep this dream alive. Run, 'Class of 94', Run!

Joshua Ginou '94 receives the Stein Family Award from Dr. Volker Stein. The award is presented annually to a student who attends the School from grade seven to graduation and has made a significant contribution to the School academically and athletically.

Camelot. To Mark Twain, Camelot was a place where religions and economic oppression had to be overthrown by individual integrity and ingenuity. To T.H. White, Camelot was a place where one man's dreams of a better world was what really mattered. Thirty years ago, the musical Camelot, somehow managed to blend these themes into a popular entertainment that was also unusually thought provoking.

The climax of the musical comes when Arthur realizes that his dream of a just and ordered society is crumbling. This dream is crumbling because human weakness has overpowered the beauty and strength of an ideal of justice whose time has not yet come. Arthur is on a battlefield, and knows he is doomed to defeat. Those whom he most loved and trusted have deceived him. His own death is a certainty. Camelot is about to end. But then a young boy, Tom Warwick, unnoticed until that moment, sample of schools attended is small, you may think that most schools are like St. Andrew's. The facts do not support this; few schools have the mix of faculty and students that St. Andrew's has; few schools have the same commitment to its mission that we have, and fewer still have the facilities that we have. However, perhaps I sound too idealistic. St. Andrew's is not perfect, everything here has not been to your satisfaction. St. Andrew's is an institution made up of people and people are subject to error. This is not Utopia. But reserve your judgement on our blemishes because from a distance of time and ■ EXPERIENCE THE DIFFERENCE AT ST. ANDREW'S COLLEGE. FOUNDED IN 1899, WE HAVE BEEN IN THE BUSINESS OF EDUCATION FOR NEARLY 100 YEARS. OUR SCENIC CAMPUS, SITUATED ON 110 ACRES JUST NORTH OF AURORA, IS ARGUABLY THE MOST BEAUTIFUL IN CANADA. OUR FACILITIES, FROM SCIENTIFIC, TO ACADEMIC, TO ATHLETIC, ARE SECOND TO NONE. OUR FACULTY, 45 TEACHERS FOR A SCHOOL POPULATION OF JUST OVER 400 BOYS, IS ONE OF THE MAIN REASONS PARENTS CHOOSE US. SOME OF THE REASONS YOU SHOULD AT LEAST CONSIDER OUR SCHOOL ARE IN THIS ADVERTISEMENT, MANY ARE NOT. THE INTANGIBLES ARE HARD TO ADVERTISE. PARENTS OFTEN TELL US THAT THE ST. ANDREW'S EXPERIENCE WAS A RICHLY REWARDING ONE FOR THEIR SONS. SOME OF OUR STUDENTS ARE ACADEMICALLY VERY STRONG, SOME ARE NOT. MOST, IF NOT ALL OF OUR GRADUATES, GO TO THE UNIVERSITY OF THEIR CHOICE. WE OFFER SCHOLARSHIP AND BURSARY ASSISTANCE TO MANY FAMILIES WHO CANNOT AFFORD THE ENTIRE SCHOOL FEE. WE OFFER A MYRIAD OF ACTIVITIES; THE S.A.C. STUDENT WHO GETS INVOLVED IS THE ONE WHO BENEFITS THE MOST. WE KEEP THE BOYS BUSY FROM EARLY MORNING UNTIL AFTER SUPERVISED STUDY IN THE EVENING. ONE THIRD OF THE STUDENTS ARE DAY BOYS, WHO, BECAUSE THEY DO GET SO INTERESTED AND INVOLVED, OFTEN RETURN HOME IN THE EARLY EVENING. WE HAVE A STUDENT POPULATION WHICH COMES TO US FROM AROUND THE WORLD - AND AROUND THE CORNER. BOYS LIVE TOGETHER, GROW TOGETHER AND FORM MARVELOUS LIFELONG FRIENDSHIPS.

“All schools teach
... the great schools inspire a love of learning.”

OUR ACADEMIC PROGRAM IS VARIED AND FLEXIBLE. BOYS CAN TAKE THEIR 30 HIGH SCHOOL CREDITS IN FOUR YEARS OR FIVE. SOME OF THE MOST ACADEMICALLY GIFTED STAY FOR FIVE YEARS BECAUSE OF THE MANY OPPORTUNITIES THAT EXIST FOR LEADERSHIP. THE COMPUTER NETWORK AT THE SCHOOL IS TRULY OUTSTANDING. S.A.C. IS OFTEN CALLED THE ENTREPRENEURS' SCHOOL.

THE NETWORK IS A FINE EXAMPLE OF A FACULTY, THAT WITH THE UNWAVERING SUPPORT OF THE BOARD, HAS BEEN TRULY ENTREPRENEURIAL IN DEVELOPING A COMPUTER-BASED LEARNING ENVIRONMENT THAT IS THE BEST OF ANY SCHOOL IN THIS COUNTRY. BOYS' ROOMS ARE NETWORKED TO THE LIBRARY AND THE COMPUTER LABS. DAY BOYS CAN ACCESS FROM HOME, INFORMATION ON ANY SUBJECT, AT ANY TIME. WE STRESS ONE-ON-ONE EDUCATION - A BOY DOES NOT GET LOST IN OUR SYSTEM. A CARING HEADMASTER WHOSE OWN FOUR SONS GRADUATED FROM THE SCHOOL, KNOWS EVERY BOY BY NAME. HOUSEMASTER, TUTOR, FORM TEACHER, COACH, ALL KEEP IN TOUCH WITH YOUR SON, AND WITH EACH OTHER. SMALL CLASSES, WITH A STUDENT/TEACHER RATIO OF LESS THAN 10 TO 1, ENSURE THAT YOUR SON RECEIVES PERSONAL ATTENTION. . . AND YET THERE IS SO MUCH MORE. THE SCHOOL'S DRAMA DEPARTMENT IS RAPIDLY RECEIVING THE KIND OF RECOGNITION IN THE COMMUNITY IT RICHLY DESERVES. THE DRAMA AND COMEDY PRODUCTIONS ARE ELABORATELY STAGED IN OUR OWN 450 SEAT THEATRE. AT OTHER TIMES IN THE YEAR ONE ACT PLAYS ARE PERFORMED. THE

SCHOOL MUSICAL IS AN EVENT ON THE CALENDAR THAT YOU WON'T WANT TO MISS. DEBATING IS TAUGHT AT ALL LEVELS AND THE SCHOOL HAS AN OUTSTANDING RECORD IN NATIONAL DEBATING COMPETITION. THE SCHOOL PIPE BAND, THE BRASS BAND, THE CHOIR, THE CADET CORPS, ALL CONTINUE A TRADITION OF ALL-ROUND EDUCATION. OVER FIFTY DIFFERENT REPRESENTATIVE SPORTS TEAMS PARTICIPATE IN VARIOUS LEAGUES. SOCCER, FOOTBALL, VOLLEYBALL, HOCKEY, BASKETBALL AND, OH DEAR, DID WE MENTION OUR NEW SQUASH COURTS AND NEW 25 METRE POOL?

The "Maurice Malone Field" comprises the large playing fields below the hill in front of the School buildings. It affords ample room for three full-sized football fields, a cricket wicket, which is only played on in the cricket season, and space for golf. This large field was under-tiled, levelled and put in order through the generous gift of the late E.T. Malone, Esq., and the field has been called the "Maurice Malone Field" in memory of the late Lieutenant Maurice Malone, who attended St. Andrew's College from 1907-1913. In 1914 he was in his second year at University and promptly volunteered for Overseas services. Malone's record at St. Andrew's College, both as a student and as an athlete, was an unusually outstanding one. He won all his First Team Colours, and was repeating the performance at University when he left at the call of duty. He was killed while leading his men in a charge near Zillebeke, on June 3rd, 1916, when only twenty-one years of age.

Maurice Malone's evidence in School, University and military life of persistence, steadfastness, courage, loyalty and enthusiasm makes it most suitable that his name should be attached to the main playing field of the School, where daily practices and many heroic struggles in big matches engage the activities of the boys.

David M. Dickie

*From The Review
Midsummer 1937:*

"The position of Head Prefect has been occupied this year by David M. Dickie of Toronto. In his four years at St. Andrew's his most consistent performance has been in the realm of athletics. He is completing his fourth year on the First Cricket Eleven, and has played on the First Football and Hockey teams for three years; this year he captained the latter. He has won his class annually in the shot-put, and last year was the Senior Wrestling Champion. "Dack's" attainments have not been one-sided. In his form he has captured proficiency prizes as well as the Isabelle Cockshutt Prize in History and the Wyld Prize in Latin. Dickie commanded number two platoon in the Cadet Corps and is a member of the Athletic Association. At all times he has discharged his responsibilities dutifully and seriously. Next year will see him enrolled at the University of Toronto where he will study Law."

D.M. Dickie enlisted on September 26th, 1941, with the rank of 2nd Lieutenant, 48th Highlanders of Canada. The following spring he was promoted to a full Lieutenant. In the fall of 1942, he went overseas. He fought in the Italian campaign and was awarded the Voluntary Service Medal and Clasp, January 1944. David was killed in action in Italy, May 15th, 1944.

Middle and Upper School

Of the 'live in' Masters, Robertson Laidlaw is possibly the most memorable and of the longest duration. Bobby or "Pitt" was there before, throughout and long after my stay at S.A.C. He remained a bachelor throughout his life, but I am sure that many attempts were made to change this status. In fact, during summer holidays more than one student reported sighting "Pitt" with an attractive young lady clinging to his arm. Be that as it may have been, he was very well liked and respected by us all.

His accurate wrist snap with a piece of chalk to awaken an inattentive student was demonstrated, and noted, on numerous occasions. Pitt taught History and did his damndest to make it more interesting than the government-selected texts had written it. Some years after we had departed S.A.C. and during the early days of the Second World War, Donald Spence chanced to visit the School during the summer, and, finding Pitt in residence, knocked on his door. There was a slight delay until Mr. Laidlaw answered and invited Donald in, seated him and began chatting. After a few minutes' conversation Pitt said, "Do you mind if I continue what I was doing?", reached behind himself and recovered, according to Donald, a very large Tom Collins. He then announced to Donald that he had been commiserating with himself that here he was still teaching Modern and Canadian History - when more history was probably being made that day than he would ever teach.

With one or two exceptions, the 'live in' Masters spent comparatively few years at the School.

'Ernie' Griffiths (Griff) I remember as being at S.A.C. the longest. He was our Physical Training (P.T.) instructor and as well as being in charge of the gymnasium and pool activities, acted as football coach. The latter was a rather thankless task for the most part in that, during my stay, we were considerably the lowest in numbers of all the Little Big Four Schools. Ernie graduated from an American university, the name of which escapes me, and was also notable for having a very attractive American blonde wife who added greatly to St.

Andrew's charm. Mrs. Griff, much to everyone's sadness, died shortly after my leaving and Griff joined Warren Stevens at the University of Toronto Athletic Association shortly thereafter. The Griffiths were obviously very fond of one another and I feel sure that Ernie found too many memories to cope with at S.A.C.

One or two years before my leaving, Mr. & Mrs. Geoffrey O'Brian came to St. Andrew's and Mr. O'Brian took over as Master in charge of Memorial House. Geoff was a fighter pilot in the First World War and therefore a great hero to us all. He was a charming man, full of fun, and Mrs. Geoff likewise. They brought with them two of their sons, Robertson Laidlaw, S.A.C. 1909-1960, is remembered at the College with the naming of Laidlaw House for day boys in grades seven to nine. As well, The Laidlaw Trophy is presented annually to the student who has won for his clan the greatest number of points during his last two years at the School.

Jim and Liam, both of whom attended St. Andrew's. Liam was a little guy much babied by both masters and boys (as was Len Franceschini at about the same time). I see Liam fairly often now at the Toronto Golf Club - some baby! Geoff was called back to the R.C.A.F. immediately the Second World War began and I think I am correct in saying that he ended up being number two in rank to Air Force Marshall Billy Bishop. The O'Brians were a delightful family and their leaving was a great loss to S.A.C.

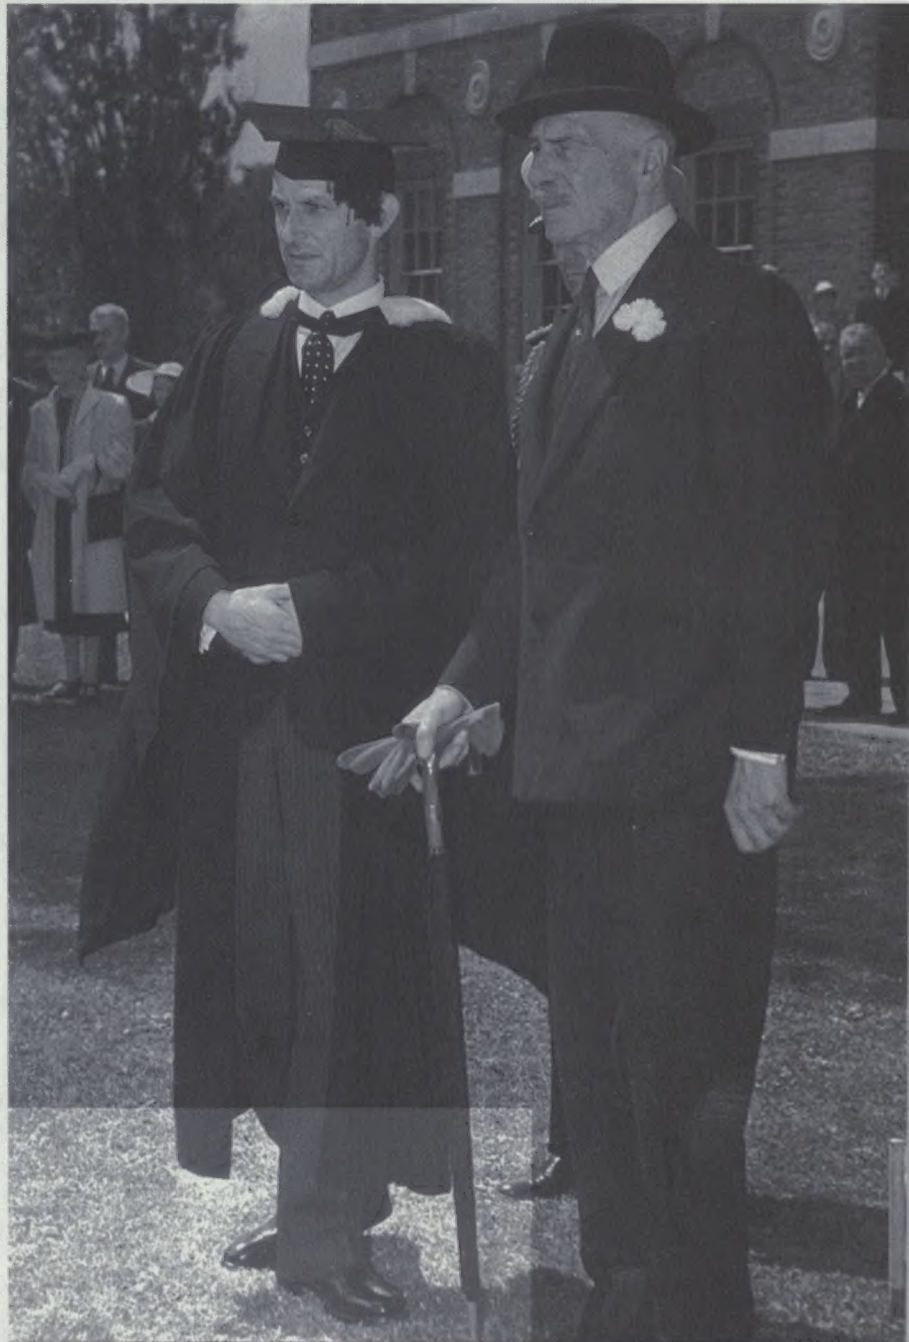

Mr. Ross (Pop) initially, as I remember, visited S.A.C. as Music teacher and later became resident Music master. Pop was a very nice guy who smoked a pipe incessantly and carried a lovely smell of tobacco ever with him. He also owned an elderly, but racy, Hupmobile convertible sedan which seemed to proceed always with a slight list to starboard. It did not have windows but rather snap-on glass side curtains. I coveted this car and in fact, once, after it had been retired because Pop could no longer find tires that fit, offered to buy it (with what I am not sure). In any event, Pop refused me the purchase thereof, explaining this difficulty, among several others. This remarkable vehicle may still remain where retired, behind the barn at the farm. Pop owned a small cottage at Cedarhurst Beach, near Beaverton, as did Donnie Rowan's family. Our family cottage was nearby at Cedar Beach and it evolved that Pop, in his youth, had unsuccessfully squired a near neighbour of ours, a Mrs. Beauchamp, of Beauchamp and Howe fame.

At about the same time, for a very short period, we had another Mr. Ross as master, whose Christian names I cannot remember. Perhaps because of his nickname, 'Oeuf', he does, however, remain in memory. The name was possibly derived because he taught French, and also possibly remembered because I could never cope with French grammar. He was a Rhodes Scholar.

K.G.B. Ketchum and his charming wife Esther were comparative latecomers during my tenure. Initially Ken taught French and, I think, Religious Knowledge (which seemed to be a Headmaster's prerequisite). It was rumoured, as events proved correctly, that Ken was being groomed to take over as Headmaster from Dr. Macdonald, the Ketchum family having a long and distinguished record in the education field. Phil Ketchum, the eldest brother was then Head of T.C.S. Dr. Mac was then beginning to show his years. Mrs. Mac had recently died and discipline throughout the School had become a bit lax.

If memory serves, we had a few rugged free thinkers in the Upper School body at that time. The cares of the Depression, of keeping the School going, had been very wearing on Dr. Mac. In any event, Ken acted as master for three years, learning the St. Andrew's ropes so to speak, before taking over as Headmaster.

Dr. Mac, I may say, with the rest and relief of responsibility, recovered remarkably well, remarried and lived a continuing useful life for a great number of years. In fact he served as Board Chairman of S.A.C. 1938 to 1947.

It must have seemed a formidable task to Ken to have to take over from a man of such stature and act as boss over a staff, many of whom were much older than he in both years and length of service at St. Andrew's. It is much to his credit that the turnover proved entirely successful in a very short time.

I remember Ken best as wearing his bowler hat (a rarity in those days) and his director's suit, striding briskly along and greeting parents somewhat effusively at Prize Day. Tea and cakes at the Head's House occurred more regularly and things started to brighten up appreciably. Perhaps this was because the Depression was beginning to round the 'corner', but more likely I think the spring in Ken's steps was being passed along to all and sundry. Esther was of great assistance, quietly and sweetly, in this regard.

Ken managed to organize trips for various purposes during school and during the holidays, undoubtedly with some parental support and with some thought towards the School's future well being. In sports there was a hockey trip to Montreal to play Lower Canada College in an exhibition game in the Forum, and an extended trip to Bermuda (by ship) to play a series of exhibition cricket games during the summer holidays from both of which I luckily benefitted. There was also arranged a Little Big Four representative cricket team trip to England during one summer, to which I was invited and have ever since kicked myself for having declined.

I also remember 'Bimbo', the Ketchums' cocker spaniel, who on one occasion was enamoured of a visiting police dog in the quadrangle, but managed to elude her advances successfully, mainly because of difference in stature between the two - part of the school entertainment, nevertheless.

St. Andrew's fared well and prospered under the Ketchums' guidance. Ken did ease us towards the Anglican from the Presbyterian and introduced carol-singing exhibitions by students for parents and guests, held in the Chapel. Pre Ketchum, the School colours were Maroon & White; post Ketchum, they became Red & White.

And now to those masters living in Aurora. Senior Andrean Masters, together with Pitt and Tuddy, made up the finest group of masters to grace any private or public school. Each morning at precisely 8:45 a.m. a dignified square box of a sedan would arrive, in sedate splendour, to the parking lot behind Flavell House. From it would disgorge Dr. Percy Robinson and Messrs. Fleming, Findlay and Goodman ready for the morning in Dunlap Hall. The vehicle was, I believe, owned by Mr. Fleming and affectionately dubbed the 'Educational Express'.

The senior member of this group was Dr. Percy J. Robinson whose specialty was Latin, and for reasons obvious was nicknamed 'Cicero' or 'Cic' for short. To me he was a man of great dignity, to the point of being almost aloof. I must confess that, in fact, he terrified me, to the extent that when possible, I made a mad dash to a German Language option. This was only going from the frying pan into the fire as it transpired, but I felt relief in freedom from Cic's particular disapproval of my scholastic ineptitude. This judgement of mine I found later in life to have been entirely unjustified. 'Cic' was a gifted amateur artist, who on occasion, by invitation, spent time during the summer sketching and painting in Georgian Bay together with members of the Group of Seven. A few of his works are in the St. Andrew's collection. Some years later he wrote, and had published, a highly regarded historical work entitled Toronto During the French Régime (1933), recently reprinted by the University of Toronto Press. 'Cic' was among the first of the Masters to join St. Andrew's when inaugurated in Rosedale in 1899.

Mr. Findlay (Pimp) was a gentle, friendly man, much liked by us all. His expertise was English Literature. The derivation of his nickname is lost in antiquity, but certainly was not of the modern connotation. Personally, I enjoyed his classes. While I did not know where in Aurora the other members of the 'Educational Express' resided, I did know Mr. Findlay's. At some stage he inaugurated a 'Reading' evening during the week, at an in-between-sports time. I believe this was offered voluntarily, and in any event I ended up at Mr. Findlay's house along with six or eight fellow Andreans. I do not think that we bubbled over with enthusiasm for the idea, but remember being received very kindly and really enjoying the evening, which also, of course, included tea and cookies prior to our walk back to St. Andrew's. The house I do remember very well. It was, and is located at the north end of Aurora, on the west side of Yonge Street, a most attractive Georgian residence with Victorian embellishments, built in the middle nineteenth century for the town's doctor. At that time Yonge Street was a dirt road which dipped down when passing the house. Now, unfortunately Yonge Street has been raised, widened and, of course, paved, so that the front door must be reached by a set of compensating concrete steps and in consequence is looked down upon from almost roof level and is quite close to the street. It nevertheless is most attractive and I am pleased that it has been declared an historical site. It was also a most suitable setting for a gentle and friendly man.

Mr. Fleming (Ernie) was our Mathematics Master, as well as the Conductor of the 'Educational Express'. For some inexcusable reason, Ernie is not as memorable for me. Perhaps I concentrated unduly in his classes, but I really think this highly unlikely. I can only remember one 'homily' by him given to our class, presumably because, for the one and only time I can remember, the 'Educational Express' did not arrive at its witching hour of 8:45 a.m. but rather somewhat later. Mr. Fleming, perhaps by way of apologizing (quite unnecessarily as we were enjoying the reprieve), told us that he had that morning awakened earlier than usual and, thinking that he had more time to enjoy his breakfast and morning paper, he was late.

My other memory of Mr. Fleming rather concerned his 'Educational Express' having had attached to it, by an unnamed student, a siren bomb. Certain residents of Flavelle House, myself included, had been advised of this attachment and surreptitiously located ourselves at the rear windows of the House overlooking the parking lot shortly after class. The results were quite spectacular as the 'Educational Express' was entered with usual dignity by all - the starter was pressed - and car was departed from in much haste among siren sounds and clouds of smoke. (This event was reported upon by John Mitchell (S.A.C. '38) in The Andean, Spring '91. He and I differ in remembrance of vehicle names and ownership, however, one of us must be right.

Mr. Goodman (Goodie), was a member of the 'Educational Express' and in charge of the Chemistry Lab and Physics. He was also interested in and assisted Harry Davis with cricket goings on, particularly to do with the First Team. Because of his after class interest in cricket, Goodie and I got along famously. He was a very kindly and patient man and really liked his boys, in particular if they were cricketers. I am afraid we sometimes took advantage of this when Goodie, behind his demonstration counter, had his back turned and was chalking some obscure formula on the blackboard. Being seated in closer contact lecture seats, as we were then, made mischief easier to achieve. Our favourite occupation, somewhat overdone I am afraid, was to sneak a piece of sodium and place it in the snow outside an open window. The latter happening, a loud bang was most effective. I never remember Goodie discovering any perpetrator or issuing other than a patient sigh accompanied by a shake of the head. We were all very fond of him and he seemed particularly delighted to greet us whenever we returned to the School after leaving. A nice guy.

Evelyn Rudsdale Robertson (Robbie) was officially the School dietician. This title is much too simple to indicate her actual dominion which included kitchen and dining room operation, purchasing and preparation of food and direction of all domestic staff in the serving thereof at least three times per day to over one hundred hungry students, masters and sundry. As well, she oversaw linen control, infirmary and cleaning staff, all the while maintaining her sanity and good nature. In fact, Robbie, to many of the waifs and strays she seemed to collect, may well have been the most important influence in St. Andrew's life.

Boarding school, full of men, young men and boys, was somewhat confining, lacking in the family niceties and graciousness. Robbie, to a comparatively small group, gratefully including me, filled this void by sort of adopting us. Robbie occupied a very pleasant one-bedroom apartment on the second floor of the Annex overlooking the Quad and the south cloister, above the dining room. This was furnished with Robbie's own attractive and comfortable furniture, including a piano. During weekends she invited us to share this homey atmosphere and also cups of tea, cake, cookies and conversation. At other times, we were free to knock at her door to ask if she were free to chat or to advise. Donald Spence, a very good friend, was particularly favoured in that he played the piano very well and Robbie enjoyed it immensely. Occasionally I was included for a listen. Robbie added a great deal to our life at S.A.C. We always dropped in to say hello when visiting the School after leaving. Donald kept in touch with Robbie after she retired from S.A.C. and returned to her home in St. Catharines and continued to play the piano and reminisce.

One summer Jack Mitchell and I purchased a 1931 Chevrolet convertible coupe complete with rumble seat, which we promptly agreed to name 'Rudsdale' in honour of Robbie. That magnificent automobile covered many thousand memorable miles during the summer of 1937 under that banner.

Harry Davis was primarily our cricket coach. He had served in the First World War and played as twelfth man for Yorkshire County (in the days of Jack Hobbs - no small distinction). Sometime after the war he emigrated to Canada and joined St. Andrew's. His great pride was our St. Andrew's cricket crease which was meticulously 'rolled' and cared for. Unfortunately, the Depression inevitably reduced Harry's attention in that area as he had to undertake full care and supervision of all College grounds and grounds staff. Reluctantly, he resorted to covering the pitch with coconut matting. During late winter and early spring Harry was allowed to set up a net at one side of the gymnasium for batting practice. He demonstrated the shots to the class and had us copy the various shots as he had illustrated. The batter's official object was to recreate Harry's demo strokes, but unofficially to try and lodge one in the rear balcony. As soon as weather permitted, the nets were moved to the lower playing field and outdoor action began.

Harry was married and had one very pretty daughter named Wodina. Their living quarters were attached to the rear of the Tuck Shop, run by Mrs. Davis, assisted by Wodina, and therefore doubly attractive to female-starved Andreans. As I remember, two chocolate mallow biscuits, an Eskimo Pie and pop - Whistle, Orange Crush or Cream Soda - were all priced at five cents each. Those were the days!

Harry created some pretty fair cricketers and teams, considering we were all dedicated baseball bat swingers to start. Willy Cox, Peter Rea and Jack Donovan come to mind immediately. One year we tied for the Little Big Four Championship with Ridley - but only because Mr. Griffiths talked Ken Ketchum into calling the game a draw because of rain when we really had them on the run. This was Ken's first year as Headmaster of S.A.C. and Griffith's umpteenth as Ridley's.

Harry was a good cricketer and coach. I am sorry that we did not do better for him and Goodie. They did, however, enjoy at least one first-class cricketer at St. Andrew's. Rolph Grant was leaving about the time I arrived. His big claim to fame at S.A.C. was a 'six' off U.C.C. on their grounds, ending up through the windscreen of a car passing by on Oriole Parkway. Rolph hailed from Trinidad and later captained the West Indies Test Team.

The Misses Brooks who ran the office and clothing sales were very memorable to the students. As sisters they reminded one of Mr. Spratt who could eat no fat and his wife who could eat no lean. Bessie was plump, friendly and bubbly. Daisy was thin, tiny and business-like. She was also an avid golfer, member of Summit Golf Club and delighted to display a cup she had won on Ladies' Day. Most importantly they, usually Bessie, were responsible for issuing our weekly pocket money envelopes in the amount authorized, and presumably predeposited by our parents. It would be a small sum by today's standards, but at the prices in those days, was quite sustaining. I remember being considered wealthy to have fifty cents approved, although I must confess to cadging additions during parents' visits and holidays.

Nepal Revisited

Last March S.A.C. students and teachers embarked on a second trip to Nepal, worked with the Sherpa people and experienced a third world culture under the sponsorship of The Sir Edmund Hillary Foundation.

Leo Arhanic '94, Neil Bruce '94, Ryan Lawlor '94, Jan Mathews '96, Martin Landry '96 and Blair MacPherson '96 were the students making the trek. Fraser Cowell, who participated on the first trip, and David Gaertner, were the staff leaders involved.

We left on March 12 and arrived four days later in Kathmandu after a stopover in Singapore. Our first impression of this third world country was one of utter shock. As we drove from the airport to our hotel, we were overwhelmed by the brutal poverty, the melee of beggars and the pollution. When we see it on TV we are able to turn our heads and ignore it. A first-hand look made us fully understand how incredibly lucky and well-off we are.

After a four-day stay in Kathmandu, we were flown up to Lukla (9000'). Four days of trekking, and we were in Tengboche, home of a Buddhist Monastery and our work site. Upon completion of our project, which consisted of working along side the 'locals' in the construction of a stone wall, we were rewarded with a trek to the beautiful summits of Kala Pattar and Gokyo Peak.

The trip was an overwhelming success. I speak for everyone in the group when I say that no one was left unchanged after this tremendous experience. A special "thank-you" to Mr. Cowell, Mr. Gaertner, and all those who supported the trip through the fundraising event at S.A.C. to benefit the Sir Edmund Hillary Foundation.

Athlete of the Year

Congratulations to David Michael '94 who was named St. Andrew's Athlete of the Year.

David was an outstanding athlete throughout his S.A.C. career in cross-country running, cross-country skiing and track & field. His leadership qualities earned him the position of Captain on several occasions and his athletic abilities have made him MVP of all three teams.

David was both Captain and MVP of the cross-country running and ski teams in his graduating year. He was also Captain of the Track & Field Team which won the C.I.S.A.A. Championship for the fifth consecutive year.

David was awarded a scholarship by the Southern Ontario Division for Cross Country Skiing. He is ranked fourth best Junior Skier in Canada and has been appointed to the National Development Cross Country Ski Team at Thunder Bay where he is enrolled at Lakehead University.

The Cadet Corps is alive and well at St. Andrew's, one of very few schools to maintain this tradition. Some of the Officers attending a mess dinner in May are: (l-r) Cdt. Capt. Daniel Gauvin, Cdt. Capt. Rich Rabnett, Cdt. Lt. Col. John Delfin, Cdt. Capt. Tom Brannon, Cdt. Capt. Michael Parent, Cadet R.S.M. Techee Cheung.

Text of a Speech Presented at Peter Stuart's Retirement Dinner [May 24, 1994, by The Headmaster]

As is evident to everyone, tonight's atmosphere lends itself to informality, to good-natured fun, to a degree of old-fashioned jesting. To this effect, we must ask our guest of honour to be tolerant and understanding, as he always is anyway.

So, if you permit, I will keep my more profound comments for Prize Day - so I won't risk repeating myself.

In order to present Peter in true fashion, a few comments might be appropriate — that is, before Geoff and Derek completely dissect him. Could you imagine two more different personalities than Peter and me, working in unison, and, for the most part, in harmony? Well, it is said that some of the best marriages derive from opposites ...

Peter and I have often played the good guy, bad guy roles. No doubt you can figure out who played whom ... In one of our annual end-of-year sessions, when Peter wondered what his true role was, I once told him that he was 'the conscience of the school'. What I really meant, now that I look back on that statement, is that Peter has the ability to be disarmingly straightforward in his assessments — with the result that all of us remain focused on the important issues, without giving sway to our own particular biases or weaknesses.

Although Peter has mellowed over the years, shedding his image as the "hanging assistant", (he has even become political at times), never once has his energy level wavered, never once has he compromised his highest principles.

Perhaps the truest testimony to Peter's extraordinary dimensions can be found in Athletics. Lost in history is the fact that he revived Track and Field at SAC in the mid 70s. Peter learned the theories, ordered the tapes (now videos) and injected the knowledge — while I cajoled high-profile athletes to join the team. His prowess in Hockey is also proverbial. Being a hands-on coach, he dons the blades and uses the boards to remain in position. Here again, he is the analyst, the theorist. His real passion, though, aside from horse-racing, is soccer. Unlike most coaches, Peter believes in perfecting the basics, before launching his minions onto the field. So it isn't unusual to see his troops form a circle and practice ball-control for hours on end. Proof is in the pudding — his teams are always competitive.

I've only skimmed the surface of Peter's attributes. So much could be said of his communicating skills, his unparalleled organizational qualities, his personal traits and virtues. We all know that behind a successful man is a successful wife. Peter's wife Pat is always controlled, low-key and ever-willing to lend a hand when and where needed, no matter how busy and involved she might be with her own career, and how much time and energy are requested by her lovely family, who we are privileged to host this evening.

While Peter is retiring, he will continue next year to assist with certain responsibilities such as Scholarships and Bursaries, Expansion Week and others.

Peter Stuart, Senior Master, congratulates scholars Robert Burke and Erik Hedges at the 1993 Prize Day. Mr. Stuart has shown tremendous commitment and leadership to the Scholarship and Bursary program at St. Andrew's over the years.

Bill Graham was once described as "pound for pound the toughest player in the C.F.L." by former Hamilton Tiger-Cat coach Jim Trimble. At a mere one hundred and seventy-four pounds, the stocky, Canadian half-back and Hamilton native who played on four Tiger-Cat Grey Cup teams in the late 1950s obviously wasn't big. But what he lacked in size he made up for in spirit, strength and determination.

So it's appropriate this man, who takes great pride in calling himself a Canadian, plans to raise the breed of horse that typifies those same qualities. It's a little horse noted for its strength and determination that goes by the name "Canadian".

Yet, even among horse-lovers, the Canadian was until quite recently a little-known and almost extinct breed, despite being one of the oldest in North America. Now Bill and his wife Pat are excited about being an important part of a growing effort to restore the Canadian to its former fame and prominence in the equine world.

Playing for a team that won the Grey Cup would be reason enough to feel proud about being Canadian. But Bill also played on the Belleville McFarlands in 1959 when they won a Gold Medal at the World Championships. "I'm a diehard Canadian," Bill said at the farm near Pike Bay. Bill revealed his deep feelings "that we've got a lot of things to be thankful for as Canadians" and this breed of horse is one of them. "I love the horse." Duke, the Graham's two-year-old stud, already shows the classic conformation of the little, multi-purpose horse bred by the Habitant farmers of New France to pull a carriage or plough, and even to race.

The Canadian evolved from horses sent over from France in 1647 by King Louis XIV for the governor of what was then called New France. Raised in Normandy from Arabian stock, "they were the pride of Louis the Fourteenth's stable," said Bill. But many didn't live through the long, hard trip across the Atlantic. Once ashore, only the strong survived the hard work of helping to clear and plow Canadian soil. On Sunday they took the whole Habitant family to church. After church they were often raced. The result was a horse described by a 19th Century French priest as "small but robust, with hocks of steel ..." The Canadian can often be seen in Cornelius Krieghoff's famous paintings of country life in Quebec during the last Century.

But events conspired against the Canadian. After the British took over Quebec in 1758 they brought their own breeds, and cross-breeding began. When the American Civil War broke out there was a big demand for the tough "French horses" from Canada and thousands died before the war ended.

In 1909 when the Canadian was declared our national horse by an act of Parliament there were only nine hundred left that qualified for registration. By 1976 there were only 383 registered Canadians.

But things are looking up, as more horse lovers and proud Canadians discover and get hooked on the breed. Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg, Ontario, has a breeding program. The headquarters of the two-hundred member Société des éleveurs des chevaux Canadiens is in Montreal.

Graham Farms plans to do its part, having recently acquired two brood mares, on the way to an initial breeding herd of ten horses.

“Well, my guidance counsellor told me that if I worked hard I might be able to succeed at selling used cars.” This is a comment I've heard more than once at a social gathering, usually from someone who has just accepted a post-doctoral fellowship or the offer of a top management position. The implication is clear; as a professional activity, guidance ranks just below alchemy and just ahead of kite-flying in thunderstorms.

Admittedly, the craft does entail some of the experiential features of these vocations. But hold! For here now is the spirited rebuttal you've wanted to read for years.

Although St. Andrew's College is a preparatory school, its programs aim at more than ensuring the academic standard for admission to university and success in meeting its challenges. St. Andrew's approach, reflected in its motto, has been to afford boys the opportunity to build strength intellectually, physically, and socially. It is a holistic approach, in which the front lines are certainly the classroom and the playing field. The Guidance Program operates quietly behind the scenes, supporting boys in the important process of self discovery and the making of crucial decisions concerning their futures. This has, doubtless, never been an easy part of growing up. It is now, I submit, an even more complex responsibility. In the following paragraphs I will sketch the broad outlines of Guidance Services at S.A.C. and how we attempt to assist in the growth process and the struggle to find the path to the door of the university which will provide the optimal environment for the development of each boy's unique potential.

LOWER SCHOOL

In grades 7 and 8, David Whitehead, Carol Rose-Kudelka and I share in the task of introducing a broad range of topics which meet and exceed the Ministry's requirements for the intermediate years. In a fifty minute class, once per four-day cycle we work through a program which covers the following four broad areas:

Self Knowledge and Personal Confidence

Recognizing the importance of identifying their strengths, and special aptitudes, and building on their accomplishments, the boys are given the opportunity to speak and write about themselves and their interests. Since we are such a culturally diverse School, this sort of exercise, accomplished through presentations, introductions, and impromptu speeches, tends to be both informative and helpful in building team spirit.

Carol Rose-Kudelka, R.N., broaches the topics related to sexuality and the physical changes of adolescence as well as the medical implications of smoking and drug use.

Identifying, accepting and handling the emotional aspects of change is also addressed through films and discussion.

Effective Interpersonal Relations

Forming and maintaining friendships, respecting and appreciating others from different cultures and religious backgrounds, conflict resolution strategies, skills required for productive group work, relationships with teachers - these are a few of the topics presented in this facet of the program. The Meyers-Briggs Type Indicator - a personality test, is used to introduce the idea of variation in the way in which individuals learn, approach life situations, and relate to each other. Naturally, in a boarding school environment, there is room for some gripe and grumble sessions in which the instructors lead gently from catharsis to creative strategizing!

Educational Planning

Boys are given the opportunity to write the Henmon-Nelson Ability Test and the Gates MacGinite Reading and Comprehension Test as part of an overall self-assessment to assist in academic and career planning. Since the ability to perform well on standardized tests is only one component of success in school, time is devoted to "student craft" including test and exam writing, note-taking, management of time and organization of work. St. Andrew's is a university preparatory school; the boys are encouraged to think about the implications of subject choice and the building of good study habits for their eventual success in a post-secondary environment.

Career Awareness

Through such interest surveys as "VIESA, and "Career Decision-Making System", the boys are introduced to the links between their personal interests, aptitudes, and possible career choices. Although the world of work seems distant to them, this is the kick-start approach to fostering the realization that careful thinking and planning may be a crucial preamble to the "accidental" chances and changes through which they find themselves in a truly satisfying occupation.

UPPER SCHOOL

Between grades 9 and 12, students can and do consult their teachers, housemasters and advisers concerning the many issues that surface in their lives. They sometimes also seek out Headmaster Robert Bedard, Geoff Smith or Bruce Somerville, all of whom, in addition to myself, assist with university guidance. Course changes, plans for application to specific programs, and the writing of such standardized tests as the PSAT (offered to all grade 11s), the SAT I and II, or TOEFL, constitute the bulk of enquiries at this level. Prospective applicants to American universities are encouraged to write the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) once in grade 12 and possibly twice in their final year. Grade 12 students are invited to participate during the November "Expansion Week" in the SAT preparation course and campus tours of various Ontario universities. During the school year, the boys have the opportunity to meet with representatives from many Canadian and American universities who either visit S.A.C. specifically, or conduct Information Programs in the area. In addition, they are issued a copy of "For Grads Only", a publication which outlines the general requirements and application procedures for Canadian universities.

GRADE 13/O.A.C.

An overview of services provided in the crucial year of graduation would look something like this:

INFORMATION:

- admission requirements to all university programs
- application deadlines and procedures
- provision of library resources - university calendars, S.A.T. preparation materials, video collection
- scholarship and residence applications
- university representative visits to S.A.C.
- attendance at U.I.Ps (Information Programs in the area)
- Financial Assistance - O.S.A.P. / U.S. Financial Aid
- Arrangements for S.A.T. preparation course.

REGISTRATION:

- College Board Tests (S.A.T.)
- English Language Proficiency Tests

APPLICATIONS:

All stages of documentation including transcripts (600 in 1994) for application to:

- The Ontario Universities Application Centre
- All Out of Province Applications including the U.S. and U.K - (189 applications in 1994 to 79 different universities)
- Scholarship and residence application documentation.

PERSONAL COUNSELLING:

- verification of O.A.C. course selection and suitable university program choices.
- career information
- assistance with essays, personal information profiles
- letters of reference
- arrangement of individual university visits
- verification of application status

This tediously tidy list of activities belies, however, the real work of the 'gang of four' and the indefatigable Mrs. Bell, the guidance secretary. At the heart of the matter is the job of assisting students and parents to sort through a maze of detail, and to make effective decisions that will positively alter the course of their lives. It sometimes involves sharing in disappointments, and cursing bureaucracy. It also means savouring the rewards: when boys come back from premier schools like M.I.T. and Queen's (twenty S.A.C. graduates accepted this year) to report that they made the right choice, that the learning experience at St. Andrew's enabled them to succeed and to excel. For beyond the escalating cut-off averages, and the competition, there is the struggle to find, amidst all the alternatives, the 'right fit' - the program and the institution which will afford the best preparation for the challenges of life in the twenty-first century. Helping in the process is a privilege. We make no claims for changing lead into gold; the boys often do that themselves as they approach the finish line and sometimes after they have gone on. It is perhaps the mystery of human potential which makes the job so interesting. The record is not determinative; the student with whom one is dealing may one day be a Prime Minister, a Nobel Prize Laureate, an industry leader or a distinguished literary figure. He will almost certainly be a prominent contributor to the community of which he is a member. In defense of that conviction I would be prepared to fly a kite in any thunderstorm.

Annual Giving Report

I recently had a visit from a member of our alumni, a bright young man with two university degrees who has launched himself into the computer services business, due in part to the interest, encouragement and education offered here at St. Andrew's. He asked during the course of our chat: "What is endowment?" ... and it struck me that some readers might not be familiar with this everyday term used in our communication with Old Boys and Parents.

It has been an extraordinary year for St. Andrew's in the receipt of gifts for endowment purposes. In fact, it is the culmination of thirty years of estate planning on the part of several wonderfully generous individuals.

But, I'm getting ahead of myself. I explained to my visitor that an endowed fund can be established by an individual, family, corporation or a foundation just the same way one opens a bank account, or invests in a mutual fund. However, unlike a bank account, withdrawals can only be used by the S.A.C. Foundation, dependent upon the wishes of the donor, to fund a Scholarship, a Bursary, a Prize or for other School purposes.

The account is usually added to each year (but doesn't have to be) and gifts are fully tax deductible. A scholarship can be created by years of accumulating funds, and each fund grows with the addition of interest and dividend income, and capital gains realized.

All of these individual accounts add up to the total Endowment of the S.A.C. Foundation. Investment of the fund is managed by Jarislowsky, Fraser and Co., held in safekeeping with National Trust Co. and supervised by David L. Rea, Chairman, and the Trustees of the Foundation.

One of the concerns my young friend expressed was the amount expected as a gift to the School or to create an Endowment. This is not an unusual question, as some young people are under the mistaken impression that they need to give a large amount, so too many tend not to give at all. There is no expectation — there is no magic number. Twenty-five dollars is a statement of support when it comes from a university student who is putting himself through school with a summer job. It is his participation that is important to us.

The conversation went on to other areas of interest and he then voiced his realization that St. Andrew's must be run on a sound business basis, or else it won't be around in the future. The transformation of a teenage student to a young businessman is fascinating to watch. I only wish we could chat with many more young people to eliminate the misconceptions and misunderstandings about how St. Andrew's is financed. I'm convinced that such a conversation would make donors out of everyone who is interested in the future of the School.

W.J. Herder

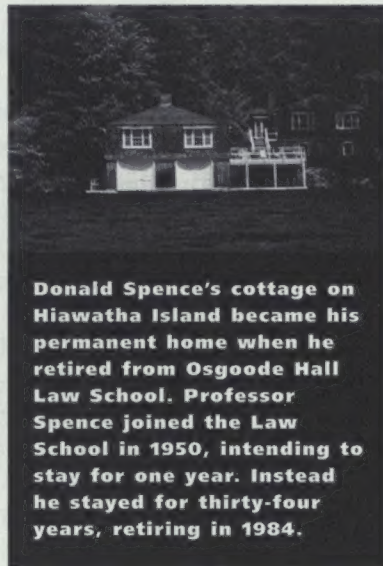

The legacy of Professor Donald Burgess Spence, Q.C., S.A.C. '37, is a unique story in the annals of St. Andrew's history. Indeed, Donald himself was unique, as described by his friends, co-workers and Spence family members. Although I never met him, we corresponded regularly, as he was often one of the first to respond to the annual giving letter each fall.

Donald's collection of fine china, silver and crystal will be enjoyed and treasured by the Andrean community.

The challenge of writing about an Old Boy whom I had never met was eased somewhat with the reading of 'A Memoir' by The Honourable William J. Anderson Q.C. and 'Donald Spence Remembered' by Professor Graham Parker in Continuum, a Newsletter for Osgoode Hall Law School Alumni. These articles are on file in the S.A.C. Association office, and are available to readers requesting a reprint.

Donald's brother Ellwood (Lou '42), his wife Joan and their son Jack made the acquisition of Donald's treasures for the School a happy occasion, and helped us appreciate the personality of the donor. Donald's other brother, Dr. John Spence '37 of Thunder Bay, has also been most supportive, and we are in their debt.

Donald Spence's cottage on Hiawatha Island became his permanent home when he retired from Osgoode Hall Law School. Professor Spence joined the Law School in 1950, intending to stay for one year. Instead he stayed for thirty-four years, retiring in 1984.

The Foundation was requested by the executors of The Donald Spence Estate to take delivery of the items at Donald's home on Hiawatha Island on Lake Muskoka. Headmaster Bedard took personal interest, and accompanied me in late October when we met Lou and Joan and they transported us out to the Island to take possession of Donald's bequest.

Donald Spence collected fine silver, china and crystal, much of which he left to the S.A.C. Headmaster's home to be held in perpetuity. As well, a number of pieces of Donald's furniture will be used in various areas of the School. Donald was a thorough man and his detailing of the provenance of his possessions will be permanently held by the Foundation.

Continuum reported in the same issue on a project undertaken by the Osgoode class of 1994 to plant vines at the Law School at York University where Donald Spence taught for many years. In recognition of Mr. Spence's marvellous gifts to St. Andrew's, the S.A.C. Association has contributed to the Osgoode Law School's Class of 1994 project in memory of Donald Burgess Spence.

W. J. Herder

Dear Jim,

Enclosed is this year's contribution to the Foundation. S.A.C. is never very far from my mind. It meant so much to me.

I appreciate your kind words about Donald's gifts to S.A.C. He was so clearly unique. We were so close in years and togetherness but that's where the similarities ended. It was so sad for me to hear of his stroke, but not unexpected.

I was and am very proud of Donald, yet again, for his passing on his special treasures to St. Andrew's.

Thanks again, Jim.

Yours truly,
Jack Spence '37

Kendall and Violet Bennett were long-time residents of Aurora. In 1949 they purchased a home on Fleury Street in what is now 'old' Aurora and lived there for their entire married lives.

Ken Bennett operated a travel business and later branched out into real estate and other ventures. Vi joined Ken in the business in the days when air travel was beginning to be widely used.

The Bennetts made travel arrangements for students at St. Andrew's starting in the 1950s. Many Old Boys will remember going to see Jack Bennet, the School Bursar, to pick up their coveted tickets home. Jack was no relation to Ken and Vi, but remembers them well: "The Bennetts did not have any children, so in a way, the boys of St. Andrew's became a family interest to them. Jim and Betty Hamilton were instrumental in involving them in the needs of the scholarship program, and some years later they quietly put several Aurora residents' sons through St. Andrew's," he said.

Jack remembers Ken and Vi Bennett at Prize Day watching one of the boys they had sponsored graduate: "They took special pride in knowing that they had made S.A.C. possible for a student who otherwise could not have attended. They also felt that Jim Hamilton's work was crucial to the future of the School and for providing opportunities for recipients of scholarships ... and as a result ... they included St. Andrew's in their wills".

Kendall Bennett died in 1986, having retired from his travel business and other ventures. Vi continued to live in her home on Fleury Street and maintained her interest in St. Andrew's until her death in October, 1992.

Vi Bennett's will left a number of bequests to various charities. The Aurora United Church, the Rotary Club, The Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto and The Salvation Army were some of the beneficiaries, reflecting the lifelong involvement which Ken and Vi had in their community and in children.

The St. Andrew's College Foundation is the major beneficiary of The Bennett Legacy. The bequest has been added to the Endowment Fund of the Foundation, and the income from the capital will be used to fund The Kendall and Violet Bennett Scholarships for residents of Aurora.

Kendall and Violet Bennett believed very strongly in St. Andrew's College and what the School is accomplishing in the educational field with young people. They left their estates to benefit students of Aurora and many young men will become Andreans because of their thoughtfulness.

K.H. Cousland

The School Archives is truly grateful to the family of the late Mr. K.H. Cousland for donating his copies of The Review to the School. Kenneth Cousland taught History and English in the Upper School at St. Andrew's from 1922-24 when it was located in Rosedale.

He left S.A.C. to pursue theological studies at Knox College in Toronto and obtained his B.Div. in 1927. He was a professor at Emmanuel College in Toronto for thirty-eight years, retiring as Principal in 1963. He was Director of Emmanuel College Choir from 1930-1963. He also authored several books and articles relating to matters of faith.

Mr. Cousland received Honourary Doctor of Divinity degrees from United College in Montreal, Knox College and Victoria University, Toronto.

Mr. Cousland's son, in donating these books, wrote that the family is "very pleased that these volumes will be located at the College", and St. Andrew's is very pleased and proud to have them.

Dear Jim:

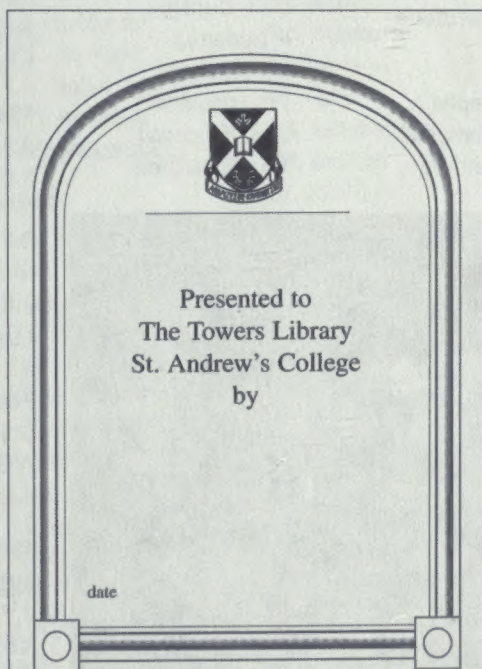

I haven't donated to St. Andrew's College for a few years, mostly due to the great amount of time and distance that separate me from the School. The latest issue of The Andean, however, reminded me of the significant contribution that the School has made to my well being and success.

Page 19 was mostly dedicated to an update on John J. Del Grande, Ph.D. and I was most appreciative. This extraordinary teacher/sensitive human being was the key factor in turning my academic life around. I attended St. Andrew's for only one year, my last year of high school, and came there at the age of sixteen as a C/D student from Sarnia, Ontario. In the first week Mr. Del Grande, or 'Stumpy' as he was known to us, detected ability in me that I was unaware of, and challenged me in such an effective manner that I attained and maintained honours throughout the year. This allowed me to enter Medical School at the University of Toronto which led to a life-long successful career as a Radiologist that would not have occurred without his personal stimulation. In addition to this treasured gift he gave his friendship throughout the year in supportive conversation and in spirit-elevating walks with occasional hunting expeditions in the woods behind the School.

I have many other vivid memories of my year at the School ... which have been recalled countless times throughout my life with great pleasure. Nothing changed me as much as knowing John Del Grande, however!

The enclosed contribution is in recognition of this man.

*With thanks,
George M. Parker M.D. '53*

Dear Jim,

One of the lasting memories of St. Andrew's is the statue of St. Andrew. In my early years at S.A.C., it was the gathering point for torch-light football rallies the night before 'the big game'. As time passed, it was the point to practice an "Eyes Right" as we drilled for an upcoming parade or the annual inspection. Prior to the building of the road that swerves north at the fork, it was a reference point to direct friends and parents of where to find a residence, a theatre or a classroom.

Oddly, during my years at S.A.C., 'Andy' seemed to welcome us back each September for football camp or just to drop off a trunk early. I say "oddly" because he never seemed to say "goodbye" at the end of a term or a year.

Recently, I had occasion to walk up the long driveway on the evening of St. Andrew's Day. I was on my way to meet Cam Williams and to wish him luck as he prepared to speak at the dinner that evening.

I imagine it's been something in the area of twenty-four years since I last made that walk and yet, despite a new walkway, a new bridge and a new parking lot, my arrival at the crest of the hill directly in front of Andy took twenty-four years out of my life. I stood for only a moment as it was cold, but in glancing up I was touched with a feeling of 'Welcome Home'.

Chairs can also be purchased for staff. Gord Ackerman was presented with his chair at 'The Salute to Coach' in the fall of 1993.

(l-r) Greg Miklas '76, his brothers Paul '80 and Brian '78 and their father Dusty, admire the boys' tiles in the School's swimming pool. The 'tiles' are actually anodized aluminum plates engraved with the Old Boys' name and years attending St. Andrew's. Over two hundred of the plates have been donated by alumni from all eras. This program was originally slated to be complete when the pool opened in 1990. However, students and Old Boys continue to express a wish to add their names; therefore, we will continue tiles as requested.

St. Andrew's College is grateful to the friends and family of Mark Oliver '85 for their gifts to the S.A.C. Foundation in memory of Mark, who passed away on November 18, 1993. In June, The Mark Oliver Memorial Trophy was dedicated "to the person making the largest contribution to rugby" during his career at the School. In the photograph above the Trophy was presented to the 1994 recipients: [l-r] Craig McFarlane '94, Mark's brothers Cory '90, and Glen '87, their father Don Oliver and John Farrugia '94.

Dear Jim,

Two days ago I received your 'annual report' regarding the advancement of St. Andrew's College. I thought to myself that I had better immediately write you a cheque or I would soon forget. The list of my contributions over the last five years which you enclosed was enlightening and I feel that your efforts in drafting such lists in general will be well rewarded. My gift for the Chapel Fund is enclosed.

In contrast to the previous year, I have no news to give you, although as my time at Oxford draws slowly to a close I am very busy deciding at this very moment what the future holds for me.

I am glad to hear that the College is maintaining a full enrolment despite the recession and that you are still committed to a 'boys only' environment. Upon reading The Andrean it sounds as though you have had another exciting year and I hope that this trend will continue for many years to come.

Dear Mr. Herder,

Having just arrived home from Halifax, I was greeted by a letter from St. Andrew's. Inside were details regarding donations, and I realized that since graduating in '92 I have not donated to S.A.C. Thinking about this I can only surmise that I fall into the category of your believers of myth #2: "I can't give a lot so I won't give anything". This was in last fall's Andrean.

I was at S.A.C. in April for the Old Boys' rugby game and dinner. I can only say that for this I am in debt. But this debt is small when compared to what I owe St. Andrew's for my four years there. I can't say enough about what St. Andrew's taught me.

With this in mind, I am enclosing my donation, which, while small, is a start. I hope that others who think as I do will also realize that to give is the key, not the amount next to the dollar sign.

I am returning to Halifax to complete my summer studies. Hope you have a great summer,

GIFTS-IN-KIND

The S.A.C. Foundation can issue income tax receipts for gifts of a material nature. Works of art are the most common example of a gift-in-kind. However, office furniture and fire resistant file cabinets are urgently required for our Archives' new home and could qualify for a tax receipt. Please call Jim Herder at 905-727-4002 for further details or to discuss a possible gift in kind.

Tax TipsCharitable Donations

Individuals will receive an income tax deduction at the top personal rates once charitable donations exceed $200 in 1994. ($250 for 1993).

Planning Tips

- Donations should be grouped and taken by one spouse to get the maximum tax advantage.
- Donations which are usually made in early 1995 could be made in 1994 to obtain the credit one year earlier at top marginal rates.

The Future in Education Today

Why tamper with success? April 23, 1994, saw the Great Hall transformed into a red and white extravaganza for our third Red & White Party. Our many guests, all casually decked out in red and white, enjoyed the variety of items offered in our live and silent auctions. Dancing to the nostalgic 'fifties and sixties' sounds of The Craig Ruhnke Band kept everyone busy between trips to the silent auction tables to check the success of their bids.

The $40,000 plus raised at the Red and White Party '94 will add to the scholarship and bursary program here at St. Andrew's to assist deserving students. Our thanks to the organizing committee and their many volunteers from the Guild and the Association. We couldn't do it without you.

Auctioneer Brian Bell helped the Ladies' Guild raise needed funds for Scholarships and Bursaries. Above, he sells a beautiful quilt handmade by Madeline Landry which she donated to the Auction.

Jocelyn Manchee, Ginny Smith and Betty Hamilton at the annual Red & White dinner dance and auction.

C. Howard Stephenson passed away in Toronto after a long illness. Known as Howard to his family, he used the stage name of 'Charlie' in the entertainment field. He left Canada for California as a teenager and worked in early motion pictures, mainly playing mood music. He later played the Imperial Theatre in vaudeville and was well-known as a comic. He leaves his wife Annie and a daughter Joanne.

'28

Robert S. Hannam

died November 24, 1993, in Reno, Nevada.

He was the owner of his own business, Hannam Insurance Agency in California, before his retirement.

Bob was a director of the Canadian Society of Los Angeles and a director of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States. He received an award for his work in starting organized amateur hockey, particularly the youth program in Southern California.

Dear Mr. Hiltz,

I have never forgotten you and St. Andrew's, the place where I had so many good memories. I graduated from St. Andrew's fifteen years ago, in the class of '77. It may sound like a very long time, but when compared with you and other Masters who have been helping Andreans for more than twenty-five years, fifteen is just a small number.

During my years at St. Andrew's, I learned and experienced so much that I consider it a real 'turning point' in my life. Academically, it was a great challenge to me, someone who came from a totally different culture and could hardly speak or write communicable English. In this aspect, I must thank Mr. Ray and Mr. Stuart for their great patience and effort to put me on the right tracks. Without these great Masters I cannot imagine how I could write you now.

Besides the classrooms and books, St. Andrew's gave me opportunities to experience many new things: for example, ice hockey, football, cadets, western table manners and so many other things that really opened my eyes and mind. In fact, coming to St. Andrew's was my first direct contact with the western world. I made new friends and began to understand Canada as a country.

At this point, I must thank you, Sir, for giving me the rare chance to see Canada at its best — the spectacular beauty of the Canadian wilderness, all covered in 'white'! I will never forget those nights when I slept inside the ditch I dug out in the snow, beneath the shining moon, twinkling stars, surrounded by an air of quietness and coldness. Yes, I fell in love with it right there and believe me — if one day I return to live in Canada, one of the main reasons would be its wonderful unspoilt nature.

I do not know whether the 'Friends of Grey Owl Club' still exists or not, but I am proud of being a member and enjoyed all its activities very much indeed.

I graduated from Western Ontario in 1981 with an honours degree in Genetics, then returned to work for the Health Department of the Hong Kong Government. With other clinical geneticists, we set up the Clinical Genetic Services and offer genetic counselling and laboratory services. Time really flies and I have been growing with the unit for more than a decade.

Enclosed is a recent picture of my fiancée Elisa and me, and to show my gratitude to St. Andrew's, I also enclose my contribution the S.A.C. Foundation.

Thank you very much for all the things that you have done for us, and hope to see you soon.

Best regards to the Headmaster and other Masters.

Yours sincerely,

*Paul Yu,
Class of '77*
